

History Curriculum Statement

Subject leader - Dan Gudgeon

Intent

History has always been held in high regard at Place Farm Primary Academy, with the school's own rich history within the context of the local area, of Haverhill, a celebrated and inspiring feature of the school. The history curriculum at Place Farm makes full use of resources within the immediate and wider local area enabling children to develop a deep understanding of the rich history of their locality.

Projects are informed by the National Curriculum and are sensitive to children's interests, as well as the context of the local area. The history curriculum at Place Farm is carefully planned and structured to ensure that current learning is linked to previous learning and that the school's approaches are informed by current pedagogy.

At Place Farm, we believe that history helps pupils to understand the complexity of people's lives, the process of change, the diversity of societies and relationships between different groups, as well as their own identity and the challenges of their time. (The 2014 Primary National Curriculum in England)

In line with the National Curriculum 2014, the curriculum at Place Farm aims to ensure that all pupils: gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world which helps to stimulate pupils' curiosity to know more about the past; are encouraged to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement; begin to understand the complexity of people's lives, the process of change, the diversity of societies and relationships between different groups, as well as their own identity and the challenges of their time.

Implementation

History is taught in blocks throughout the year, so that children achieve depth in their learning. Teachers have identified the key knowledge and skills of each topic and consideration has been given to ensure progression across topics throughout each year group across the school. By the end of Year Six, children will have a chronological understanding of British history from the Stone Age to the present day. They are able to draw comparisons and make connections between different time periods and their own lives. Interlinked with this are studies of world history, such as the ancient civilisations of Greece and the Mayans.

The local area is also fully utilised to achieve the desired outcomes, with extensive opportunities for learning outside the classroom embedded in practice. Consideration is given to how greater depth will be taught, learnt and demonstrated within each lesson, as well as how learners will be supported in line with the school's commitment to inclusion. Outcomes of work are regularly monitored to ensure that they reflect a sound understanding of the key identified knowledge. Within our knowledge-rich approach, there is a strong emphasis on people and the community of our local area.

The Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) follows the 'Development Matters in the EYFS' guidance which aims for all children in reception to have an 'Understanding of the World; people and communities, the world and technology' by the end of the academic year.

Impact

Outcomes in Project books evidence a broad and balanced history curriculum and demonstrate the children's acquisition of identified key knowledge. Children review prior learning weekly through Do Now revision of the previous week, term, year and Key Stage.

Emphasis is placed on analytical thinking and questioning which helps pupils gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world and are curious to know more about the past. Through this study, pupils learn to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement. Regular projects provide further relevant and contextual learning, engaging member of the community in children's learning and providing positive role models from the community for children to learn from. This therefore enables our pupils to become confident and resilient historians by the time they leave Place Farm and transition to secondary school.
